Terry E. Hill's Sensational New Novel "The Committee" Exposes the Dark Behind Americas Top Politicians

By Carolyn Gooden | 10/13/2013, 11:27 a.m.

San Francisco, CA (BlackNova.com) – In his edgy and beautifully crafted style, critically acclaimed author Terry E. Hill gives readers a never seen before glimpse into the dark side of American politics in his new book, The Committee. Far from the accepted notion of one man, one vote, Hill reveals the sinister world of secret societies and mystical forces that control many of the country's top politicians.

Camille Emadine Hardaway is the first African American female mayor of Los Angeles, California. She has it all – stunning good looks, power, a devoted husband, and influential allies. There is even talk in some circles of her running for Governor and maybe even president.

For two centuries, the mysterious women of a New Orleans family have led a secret society of the most powerful people in the country, known as The Committee. The group has selected every US president since James Monroe and control much of the country's economy.

The Committee has decided Camille will be the first black female president of the United States and use manipulation, intimidation, murder and the powers of a mystical candle to ensure her rising star reaches all the way to the White House.
